SUMMARY

A Level 1 standing building survey was carried out on the former police station prior to demolition for a residential development. It is recommended that no further archaeological work is required during this current development.

1 INTRODUCTION

A former police station at 86-92 Fonthill Road is due to be demolished in advance of a residential development; the Aberdeen City Council Planning reference is P120219 and the application was passed on 9.4.2012 with Condition 1 which states that 'No development shall take place within the area indicated (in this case the area of the whole development) until the applicant has secured the implementation of a programme of archaeological work in accordance with a written scheme of investigation which has been submitted by the applicant and approved by the Planning Authority. The programme of archaeological work will include all necessary post-excavation and publication work'. The purpose of the condition in this case is to ensure that a historic building survey (English Heritage Level 1 equivalent) is undertaken before the former police station is demolished. The site is located at 25-30m OD, NJ93295 05186. This work was commissioned by Lindsay Greig, Architectural Manager, Veitchi Homes Ltd, Unit 4, Wellington Circle, Altens, Aberdeen, AB12 3JG.

2 BACKGROUND

Fonthill Road was called St Machars Place on the 1867 First Edition Ordnance Survey; on the Second and Third Editions the site is a gap site adjacent to the Old Machar Poorhouse. The site lies between No 84 and No 74 and a modern block of flats at the north (Howburn Court).

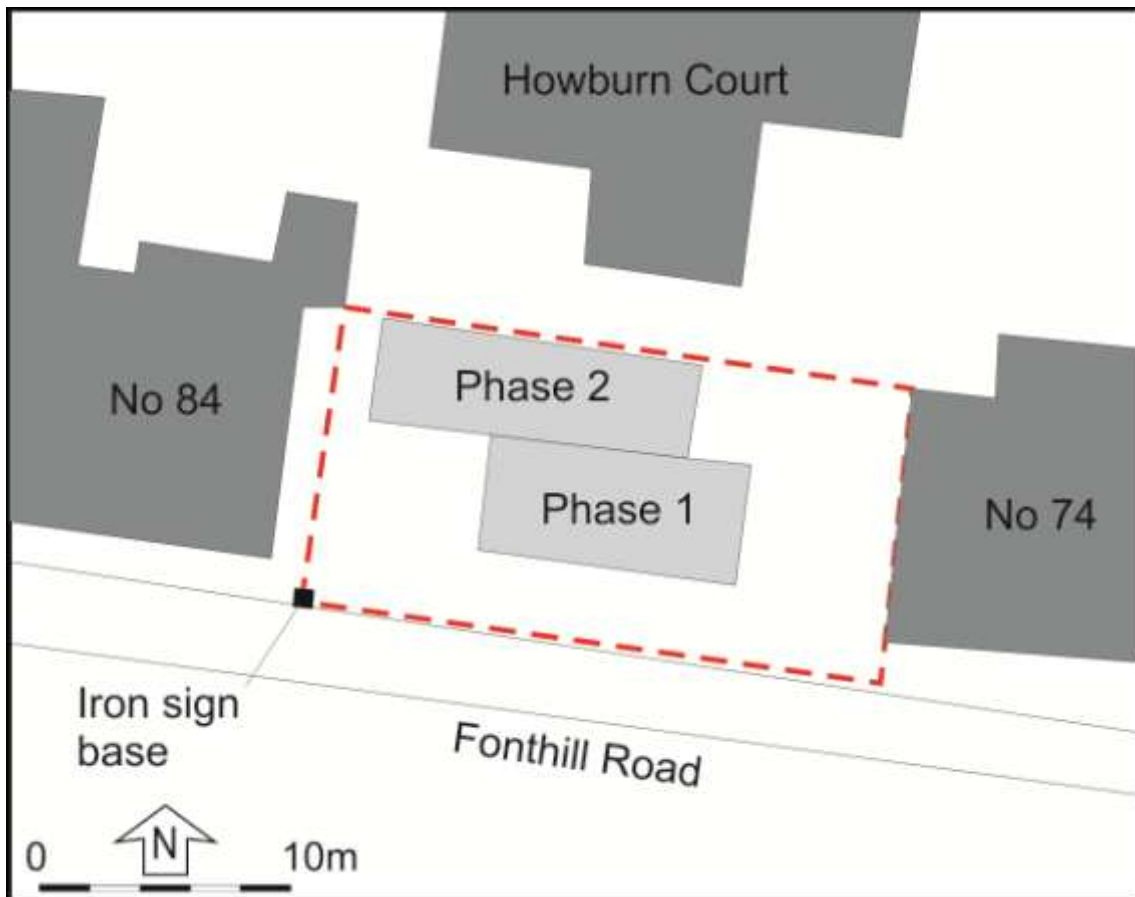

The station was therefore built after 1926 (Phase 1) and was extended in 1984 (Phase 2). The 8 October 1984 edition of The Ferryhill Focus reported

New Police Station.

The newly refurbished Police Station in Fonthill Road is now the most modern in Aberdeen boasting separate showers for men and women officers.

3. THE STANDING BUILDING SURVEY

The Phase 1 section of the building is 10m long and 4.5m wide (Illus 3). It is rubble built with a granite facade and harled exterior walls (cover). It has one door and three high windows on the south (front) facade and a window in each of the side walls.

Phase 2 is built of concrete blocks with granite trim (Illus 4) and is built on to the north side of the Phase 1 structure. The interior has no period features and is plain and utilitarian (Illus 5).

On the street end of the west wall of the plot, an iron sign base survives (cover); this presumably held the POLICE sign which has since been removed or broken. It is intended to keep this feature.
